

Ridgeline®. The One Ridge Vent For All Applications.

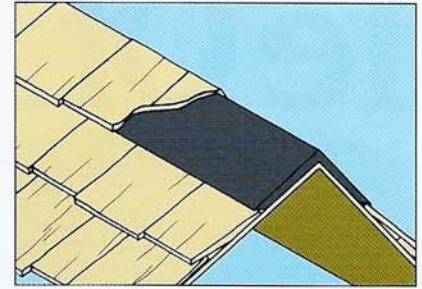

Low-profile Ridgeline Works Great On Roofs Of All Types And Styles.

Conventional concealed ridge installation.

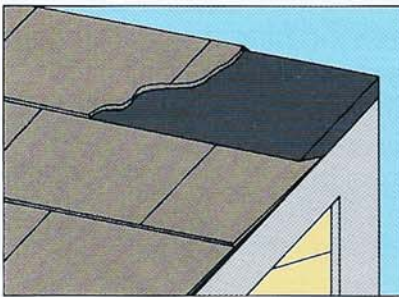

Installed on Ondura Corrugated Roofing Tile.

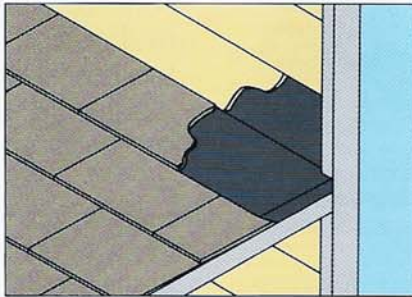

Installed on Cedar Shake Applications.

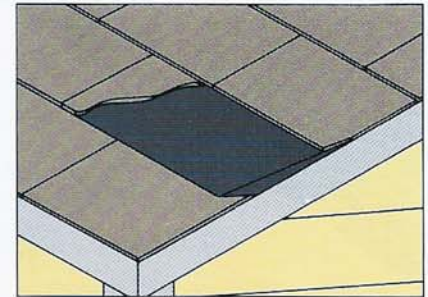

Convenient Snap-out Baffles Enable Ridgeline To Easily Adapt To A Variety Of Applications.

Peak vent application for roofs of contemporary design.

May be used to tie in where a roof and wall join.

May even be used as an intake vent when soffit ventilation isn't possible.

Ridgeline. The Best Choice In Ridgevents.

- Ridgeline features a unique roll style peak which eliminates shingle cracking at the ridgecap.
- Ridgeline's interior baffle system won't clog with debris and snow like exterior baffles found on many other ridgevents.
- And, Ridgeline vents are completely covered with roofing, so there's no chance of deterioration from damaging UV rays.

Ridgeline. The Ridgevent That Protects Your Shingle Warranty.

Most shingle warranties require ventilation. Ridgeline vents provide 15 square inches per linear feet of net free ventilation when used in conjunction with balanced soffit ventilation.

Warranty: Upon proper installation, Ridgeline® vents are warranted free of manufacturing defects for the life of the roof cover installed in conjunction with the vent application. (No statement in this literature should be construed as a warranty. For a Ridgeline Ridge Vent warranty, please contact the customer service department at the address listed below.)

Product Data:

Length per vent: 5 feet (60 inches)

Weight per vent: 3.3 pounds

Height: Low-profile, 3/4"

Material: Tough, high-density co-polymer

Installation: Vents are self-aligning and have nail reference line for easy installation. Ridgeline endcaps should be used at the end of all vent runs. For detailed installation instructions see the Ridgeline Installation Guidelines.

For additional information or the name of the Ridgeline® dealer nearest you, call 1-800-777-7663, or write Ridgeline, 4900 Ondura Drive, Fredericksburg, VA 22407.